

Methodological and Discussion Seminar for University Students

Russian Influence and Disinformation

11 July 2024, 14:00 PM – 15:30 PM
Hall 1, Center for the Study of Democracy

This seminar will provide an in-depth exploration into the strategies and techniques used to counter the Kremlin's Foreign Information Manipulation and Interference (FIMI) operations, drawing on the extensive expertise of our CSD team. The seminar will cover a range of critical topics, including:

1. Combating Foreign Information Manipulation and Interference (FIMI)
  - Developing evidence-based and data-driven policy strategies.
  - Utilizing media monitoring and audience analysis techniques.
2. Understanding Media Capture
  - Techniques to identify and counteract media capture.
3. Analyzing Tactics, Techniques, and Procedures (TTP) of Threat Actors
  - Examining of the methods used by threat actors to manipulate information environments.
  - Case studies on strategic information operations.
4. Media Landscapes in Central and Eastern Europe
  - Exploring the media dynamics in strategically important states.
  - Addressing the susceptibility to foreign authoritarian influence and strategic corruption.

This seminar is designed to enhance your understanding of these critical issues and equip you with the skills needed to analyse the complex challenges posed by malign actors. It is an invaluable opportunity for interns to learn from our team of experts and apply these methodologies in their own research and professional development.
